On May 10, 1869 the Union Pacific and Central Pacific railroads met at Promontory Summit, Utah, where the two were linked by a final, ceremonial spike made of gold. Our nation, still recovering from the Civil War, was finally unified by a transcontinental ribbon of steel stretching from sea to shining sea.

The Winchester® Model 1873 Golden Spike 150th Anniversary Commemorative Rifle celebrates this monumental milestone of perseverance and innovation, which stands as one of the most significant events in American history.
